Pastoral Potpourri

The 7 year old was bragging to his father about what a great batter he was. "Let's see," his father said. He got his bat and ball, and they went into the backyard. The father watched as the boy threw the ball up into the air and swung with all of his might. "Strike one," the boy said as he missed. "Strike two," he said as he missed again. A third time he hit nothing but air and shouted "Strike three." Sheepishly looking at his father he said, "Boy, am I a great pitcher or what."

Of course attitude cannot substitute for ability, but far too many people are more limited by their minds than they are by their skills - as are congregations. It is what we have in our minds, it is what we believe, that determines whether we will keep on trying, keep pursuing, keep following, venturing, working, ministering, and serving. It is the major requirement for winning. I'll see you in church, Stephen

Ministry With Intent

There are two ways which a church can go about living out her calling. One is to go through life hunting and pecking, looking for opportunities and hoping that something connects with people. Or she can go after ministry with intention, knowing what her piece of the puzzle looks like, knowing WHY she exists, her cause, and going straight to the places where she fits.

"To loving serve so that all experience hope and encouragement through the Holy Spirit" is Central Presbyterian's WHY.
